

Sets Hearing On Subdivision Control Dispute

(CNS) Superior Court Judge Walker Butler will hold another hearing Aug. 20 in the dispute between Cook county and its municipalities over control of area within 1 1/2 miles of incorporated towns. Cities and villages will file briefs and answers in the weeks before the hearing.

According to the Illinois Municipal League, municipalities located in counties which have adopted the county zoning act will be bound by the decree resulting from the case.

The suit, involving the validity of planning ordinances and extraterritorial powers was begun in early February by the villages of Glenview and Park Forest and the city of Park Ridge. Arlington Heights became a party two weeks later, and all are seeking a ruling to declare the rights of municipalities on the control of subdivision plats within 1 1/2 miles of incorporated areas.

According to the original suit, which named the County of Cook, and Recorder of Deeds Sidney R. Olsen, and County Clerk Edward J. Barrett as defendants, various plats of subdivision were recorded and became part of the clerk's map department public records without appropriate municipal approval. The suit cited a letter of opinion from State's Attorney of Cook County Daniel P. Ward, which expressed the opinion that the land in the 1 1/2 mile unincorporated area "does not require the approval of the municipality." The letter was dated November, 1961.

A contradictory letter of opinion, from Attorney General William G. Clark in June of 1962, was also cited in the suit, but the villages charged that State's Attorney General's opinion as valid.

Altho any decree entered will have widespread effect on the county, the issue specifically to be resolved is the control of the plat of subdivision within

1 1/2 miles of the municipalities bringing this action. They seek a decree which would make the recording of this area invalid until it has proper municipal approval.

Of a more comprehensive nature, however, this suit also seeks a court decision which would permanently enjoin the county and its officials from accepting and recording plats of subdivision without prior approval from the appropriate municipal body.

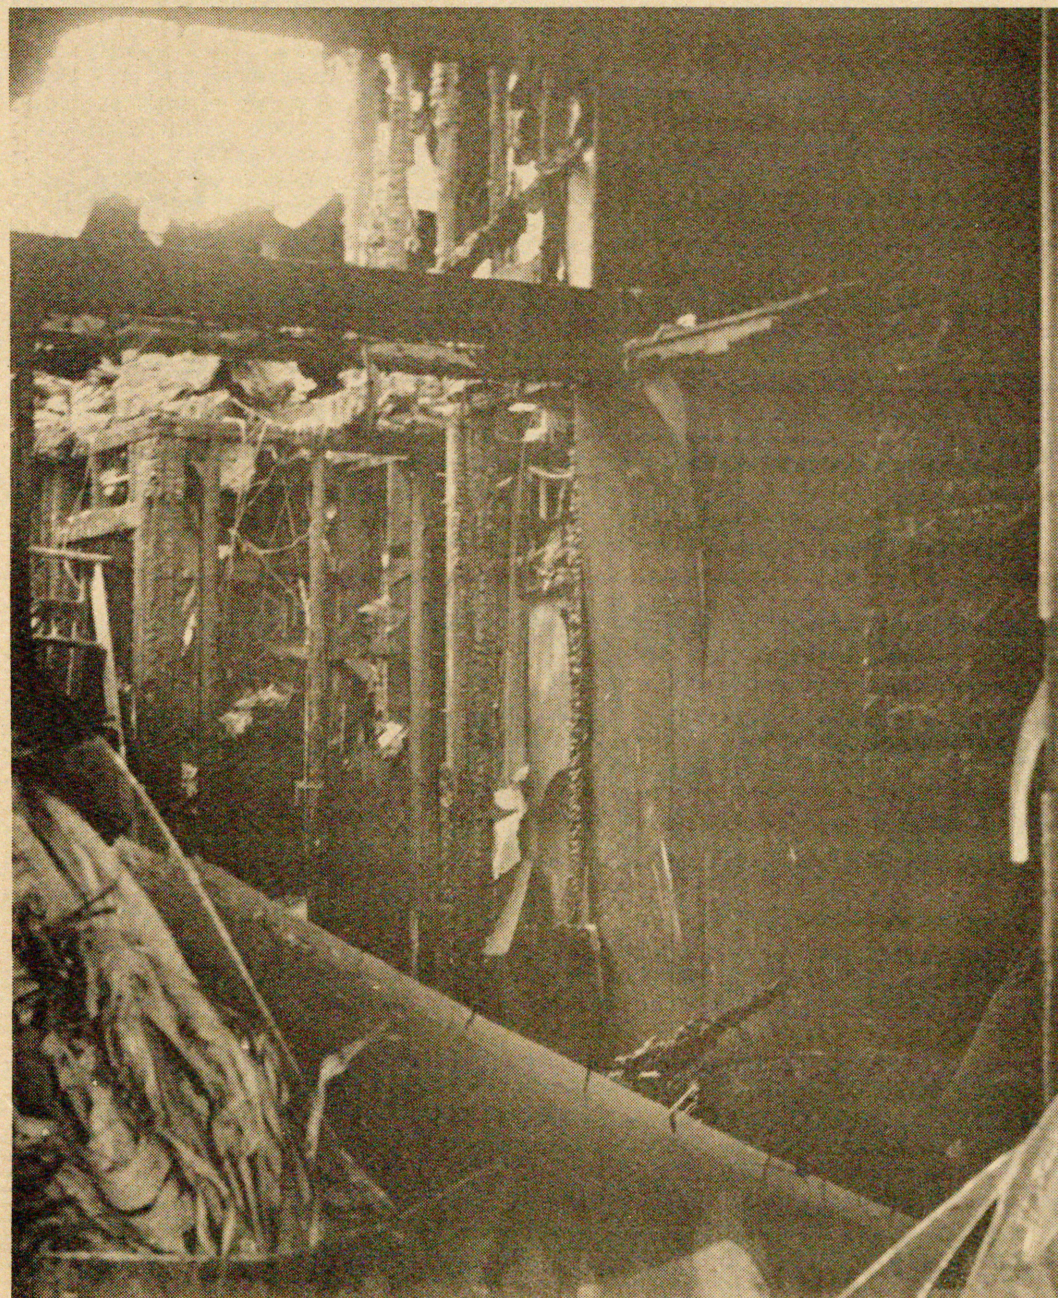

RESCUE GIRL from blazing home thru windows leading onto front porch. These two sightseers are standing by the casement windows thru which George Valy, New Lenox business man, carried his 19-year-old daughter, Sharon. The girl's room was just off the porch. She had been overcome by smoke and but for the timely rescue by her father would have perished. The charred remains of the family's petpoodle were found in this room the next day. As it is Sharon is hospitalized with the upper half of her body covered with burns.

fire last week. The table marks the dining area. The picture was taken thru a window off the front porch.

Father Saves Daughter When Fire Sweeps Geo. Valy Home

Altho no longer described as critical the condition of Sharon Valy, 19 year old daughter of Mr. and Mrs. George Valy, who was severely burned in the fire that destroyed the Valy home, is still regarded as serious.

She is in Silver Cross hospital, Joliet, for treatment of first, second and third degree burns extending from her head to her waist.

That she is alive was due to the action of her father, one of the officials of the New Lenox Lumber Co. Unable to reach her room thru the hallway from inside the house the father battered in the casement windows to Sharon's room with his fists and then cranked them open. The metal was so hot that he seared his hands in cranking the windows open so he could enter the room and reach the girl. He got her thru the window to safety and a neighbor carried her to the hospital. Mr. Valy suffered burns and cuts to his hands and arms but after receiving emergency treatment he left the hospital. Later in the day he suffered from shock and had to return to Silver Cross.

Miss Valy, who is a bookkeeper at the lumber yard, suffers from an asthmatic condition and was overcome by smoke so she was unable to help herself. Her 17 year-old brother, Dennis, whose bedroom is toward the rear of the house, escaped thru a window. He suffered burns about the eyes but was not hospitalized. Mr. and Mrs. Valy got out of the house at the rear.

The home, which was located in Oak Brook, a subdivision in New Lenox township near Marley, is a total loss. It was valued at around $40,000 but with the loss of the furnishings added the total damage would be substantially higher, it was said.

The home was built on a hill side so that while the front of the house was at ground level the rear was two stories in height. The bedrooms were partitioned off but the rest of the house was open with dividers in place of partitions as has been the style in recent years.

The fire is believed to have been started by defective wiring, firemen said, and had its beginning in the kitchen area in the vicinity of the refrigerator and deep freeze. Once it blazed the flames spread rapidly thru the interior on the wooden surfaces of the paneled walls.

The New Lenox, East Joliet and Homer fire departments were summoned to the scene and Assistant Fire Chief Otto Bormet, of New Lenox, was in charge. New Lenox Fire Chief Frank Valy, father of George, was in Minnesota on vacation.

When the departments exhausted their water tanks they fought the blaze with water pumped from the swimming pool at the rear of the house.

Of the six counties that comprise the metropolitan area, only Cook county with 51,476 acres of parks and preserves, meets the ten acres per 1,000 population standard with 10.14. Other counties drop below this standard: the range being from 1.07 acres per 1,000 persons in McHenry county to 7.97 in Will county. Other counties show: Du Page, 5.97; Kane, 4.51; and Lake, 1.97 acres per 1,000 persons.

The commission, focusing attention on these recreational deficiencies, predicts an area population of 8,000,000 by 1980,

Four of the New Lenox firemen were overcome with smoke taken to Silver Cross hospital by ambulance, Wayne Mangun, Dale Anderson, Mickey Norton and Ray Allison. Later Clyde Floyd went to the hospital for treatment of a burn on his forehead. Several others were treated at the scene by Dr. Deiter Hoffman and some given oxygen.

The fire was discovered shortly before midnight Tuesday, July 24. Mrs. Valy was the first to awaken. She could smell smoke and she woke her husband. When they went into the hall the place was filled with smoke. The son, who was also now awake, opened his bedroom door but finding the hall full of smoke he went thru a window leading out of his room. Because of the fire and smoke Mr. Valy was unable to get to his daughter's room from inside so he saw Mrs. Valy safely out of the house and then rushed to the front porch and the rescue of his daughter followed.

The flames shot up thru the center of the roof, burning a hole approximately 15-feet square. Sight of the blaze brought dozens of spectators to the scene.

Firemen worked for several hours before getting the fire extinguished. The lots in Oak Brook are large, a factor that aided firemen in preventing any spread of the blaze to neighboring homes.

The Valys have not reached any conclusions yet concerning rebuilding. Before deciding that they want to know if the federal and state engineers have agreed as to the routing of highway FAI 80. There is a report that the new east-west coast road would take the Valy holdings in Oak Brook. If this is true then the Valys would look for another homestead.

Arbury School Board Busy With Plans For Building

The school board of Summit Hill District 161, Arbury Hills, met in special session Monday evening to discuss the first preliminary plans produced by their architect, William Schiedeman. The board expects to be meeting on a weekly basis to prepare a clear estimate of the cost of the expansion program they will present to the public. It is necessary for early approval of the bond referendum if the addition is to be ready for occupancy with the opening of school in the fall of 1963.

The expanding population of the district has created an immediate classroom shortage. This is illustrated by the fact that it has been necessary to form two first grades. The problem for this school year will be to house nine grades in eight rooms.

The board, in addition to studying the classroom shortage, is conscious of their responsibility in complying with the state recommendations for recognition. The visitation report from P. F. Pool, general supervisor for the state department of education, indicated to the school board last year that, "as enrollment increases, it will be necessary for the district to complete the building by addition of a multi-purpose room, storage rooms, and more wash rooms".

The need for a large area for physical education is emphasized by the Illinois school code which requires school boards to provide for health and physical education of pupils under their control. The law requires daily participation in courses of physical education and health

Report Recreation Space Above Average At Mokena

(CNS) Mokena with 22,59 acres per 1,000 population was above the generally accepted standard of 10 acres recreational space per 1,000 population, the Northeastern Illinois Metropolitan Area Planning commission reports.

Other southwest suburbs listed in the commission's report, "Open Space in Northeastern Illinois" were: Joliet, 21.09; Lockport, 11.71; Summit, 2.92 and Oak Lawn, 0.765 acres per 1,000 population.

Of the six counties that comprise the metropolitan area, only Cook county with 51,476 acres of parks and preserves, meets the ten acres per 1,000 population standard with 10.14. Other counties drop below this standard: the range being from 1.07 acres per 1,000 persons in McHenry county to 7.97 in Will county. Other counties show: Du Page, 5.97; Kane, 4.51; and Lake, 1.97 acres per 1,000 persons.

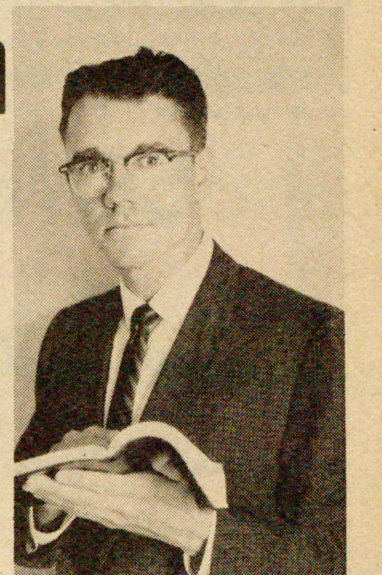

The commission, focusing attention on these recreational deficiencies, predicts an area population of 8,000,000 by 1980, which coupled with more per capita income, more leisure time, and greater mobility will need more parks and recreation areas of all types.

It is largely a now-or-never proposition, the commission warns, with continued urbanization in the six-county area intensifying the competition for land. An additional 400 to 450 square miles of land in this area will be urbanized by 1980.

The state, the commission recommends, should increase its holdings with the metropolitan area by 65,000 acres of open space. It also urges that another 80,000 acres outside the area but with a two-hour driving radius be added. Counties will have to acquire another 40,000 - 50,000 acres of preserves to meet the needs forecast for 1980. Park districts must also continue to increase their facilities to keep pace with expanding needs.

There will never be another chance to do this job, the commission warns the many governmental units and agencies in the area.

REV. F.W. BUMPUS

Park View Baptists to Hold Revival

Beginning Sunday night, Aug. 12, and continuing thru Aug. 18, revival services will be held nightly in the Park View Baptist church, LaPorte road and Scott street, Mokena.

The services will begin at 8 o'clock each evening.

The Rev. Frank W. Bumpus, pastor of the Bethel Baptist church, Roselle, Ill., will conduct the revival and the public is invited.

The Rev. Mr. Bumpus is a graduate of Bob Jones university. He is also an artist and sometimes illustrates his messages with chalk drawings. A nursery will be operated where parents attending the services may leave their small children.

Park View Baptist church is without the regular services of a pastor at this time and is now in the process of getting a new minister.

Greater expansion of the total school program becomes possible when these additional facilities are available, it was stated. The community also benefits, it was said, by acquiring an adequate meeting place for civic, youth, and school groups.

The Lantern Helps to Shed Light For Blind

The Lantern, a shop long needed in the Orland Park shopping center, is being well received by local residents. Different from the usual gift shop, many items are made by women in the Palos-Orland area. This shop's name signifies it's purpose as all profits will help support the activities of the Palos branch of Recording for the Blind whose 32 volunteers and other staff members donate many hours putting text books into record form for blind students.

A distinctive line of greeting and Christmas cards is on display from England. The Lantern is introducing for the first time in this country, a line of greeting cards which appeals to so many Palos and Orland residents because they feature birds and wild flowers pretty enough to frame.

Browsers are welcomed in this shop and the hostesses gracious.

Behind scenes in The Lantern is a workshop where a sewing machine hums, drills buzz, drilling pine cones and nuts for Christmas wreaths and other holiday arrangements. Other workers are decorating Swiss chalet doll houses which are enchantingly appealing, especially to doting grandmothers - all in preparation for a fall showing of gifts that promise to be different from the usual commercially made things for the holiday season.

Giving their time as hostesses are: Mrs. Ed Barnes, Mrs. Robert Heyden, Mrs. Zigfried Linderoth, Mrs. Richard Valentine, Mrs. Roy Carnes, Mrs. Thomas Turner, Mrs. James Taber, Mrs. Thomas Breed, Mrs. Harry Likens, Mrs. Jack Braschler - all of Palos and Mrs. Roy Proctor of Blue Island.

In the workshop decorating the Swiss chalet doll houses so attractively that grandmothers cannot resist them, are Junior Aids, Susan Swayne, Susan Devoursney, Cindy Geiger, Pam Helquist and Patricia Swayne.

Making arrangements and wreaths are Mrs. James Van-Epps, Mrs. Lawrence McCoy, Anne Herbock, Mrs. Harry Maes, Mrs. William Toso, Mrs. Paul Bruns, Mrs. Paul Schreiber, Mrs. Jean Copeland, Mrs. Jerome Vlk, Mrs. Joseph Ryba, Mrs. Dorothy Capron, Mrs. Joseph Leonardo and Mrs. Alfred Standal.

Sewing is done by Mrs. George Gifford of Blue Island, Mrs. John Lucas and Mrs. Jack Smith of Chicago and Mrs. Jean Copeland of Palos Park.

The fun of making things together makes a pleasant day of accomplishment. Every Thursday each lady packs her sandwich and reports at 10 o'clock. A huge pot of coffee is made

See More Court Fights To Protect County Zoning

(CNS) Zoning by court decree, a subject that needs more than one column, will be put up to the county board at its mid-August meeting, Edward A. Plusdrak, in charge of the civil branch for state's Atty. Daniel P. Ward, disclosed Monday.

Altho concerned by the possible effect of the "austerity program" announced by President Seymour F. Simon, Mr. Plusdrak said he will submit a letter outlining the need for expansion of his zoning staff to five from two lawyers, reduced to one this week with the departure of Richard R. Filler, 5-year veteran. More office space is also needed than one jammed cubby-hole.

Plusdrak was given his cue last meeting when President Simon asked his lawyer, Ward, and the hours pass swiftly. Everyone goes home with the feeling of having made a contribution to someone less fortunate. In addition to the regular Thursday workshop some of these ladies give additional time and some take work home with them.

It is too bad that the blind cannot see the beautiful things made by these devoted volunteers.

Hold Funeral Services For Edward Homan

Funeral services for Edward Homan, 78, of Manhattan, who died at his home July 25, were held last Friday, July 27, from the Klemm funeral home to the Manhattan United Church of Christ at 2 o'clock. The Rev. Eugene Kalkbrenner officiated and burial was in Manhattan cemetery.

Mr. Homan retired from farming 20 years ago and since then had worked on highway maintenance crews. He was well known in the New Lenox, Frankfort and Green Garden townships.

A daughter, Mrs. Anthony (Doris) Costenaro, of Joliet and six grandchildren are the immediate survivors. His wife, Doris, died four years ago.

"whenever possible appeal and protect the zoning of this board".

Here is the point at which letters from the suburbs, directed to board members, will make themselves felt as in the barrage received about the trailer camp east of Orland Park approved April 30 by Judge Charles S. Dougherty, but now the subject of an appeal.

MR. AND MRS. RONALD FREDIN

Janet Wise, Ronald Fredin Wed In St. Jude's

Miss Janet Marie Wise and Ronald Fredin were married at St. Jude's church, New Lenox. The ceremony took place at 3 o'clock the afternoon of June 30, with the Rev. Faust Klink, O.F.M., officiating. Bouquets of lilies adorned the altar and sanctuary.

The bride is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Clarence E. Wise, 141 Oakview Drive, New Lenox, and the bridegroom is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Roy Fredin, 135 Oakview Drive.

Given in marriage by her father, the bride wore a gown of white rosepoint lace with an Empire fitted bodice and a sabrina neckline and long fitted sleeves and a bouffant princess skirt enhanced with back detail of scalloped edge lace ruffle tiers in a chapel train. A Swedish crown, edged in seed pearls and sprinkled with iridescents, held in place her elbow length silk illusion veil. She carried a cascade bouquet of stephanotis centered by an orchid.

Miss Judy Haffner, the maid of honor and a cousin of the bride, wore a floor length gown of blue silk organza over taffeta with multi-colored cummerbund. Embroidered flower medallions repeated the colors in the panel of the skirt. Her head piece was a halo of blue velvet adorned with pink sweet heart roses and accented with colors from the cummerbund. She carried a white prayer book adorned with pink sweetheart roses. Dressed identically with her was the bridesmaid, Miss Margie Tommany.

Kurt Fredin, brother of the groom, was best man and ushers were Gordon Ritter and Dale Johnson.

A buffet supper was served to 200 guests at Bruns restaurant.

Janet Wise, Ronald Fredin Wed In St. Jude's

For their wedding trip to Wisconsin, the new Mrs. Fredin chose a brown linen sheath with brown and white figured matching jacket, bone accessories and a corsage of "mums".

They are presently making their home in Charleston, Ill., where the groom will graduate from Eastern Illinois University in August and will then join the staff of the Homewood-Flossmoor high school where he will teach Industrial Arts this fall.

Pre-nuptial showers were given by Miss Mary Ellen Wilsterman, Mrs. Howard Sweitzer and Mrs. Leroy Krohn.

Say Driving Lessons Pay Off In Lower Insurance

Have you seen the red Lincoln-Way station wagon in your community this summer? One hundred eighty-eight students are receiving their behind-the-wheel training under the direction of Bill Edwards. Every Lincoln-Way sophomore boy and girl receive the classroom phase of driver education as a part of a six week unit in physical education.

The state of Illinois reimbursed the Lincoln-Way driver training program in the amount of $7,896 to cover the cost of salaries, operating, maintenance and depreciation.

Savings are made in insurance premiums for students who complete the driver training program in a satisfactory manner. Saving generally amounts to 10%.

In some cases, savings to parents for student drivers amounts to as much as 20%.

These savings are made for students who have achieved honor roll status or maintain a B average. One can say that the drivers training program doesn't cost the Lincoln-Way high school district a penny and that hundreds of parents benefit from lower car insurance premiums.

CASE PENDING

A Mokena resident, Claire Chorak, Glenet Heights, has a case pending in the Joliet police court. She was scheduled to appear last Friday but was not in court on that date, the records show. She was arrested the previous weekend following an accident in which she is alleged to have hit four parked cars in the vicinity of Ruby and Columbia streets after crossing the Ruby street bridge. She was charged with driving a car without a license, failure to have her car under control and causing an accident, and leaving the scene of an accident. She is at liberty on bonds of $500.

Branch Banking

Council Names

Aides In Area

Five area residents have become members of the Citizens Committee of the Illinois Council for Branch Banking. It was announced this week by James C. Downs, Jr., council chairman. They are: Cora Snider of Lockport; Lawrence Offill of Lincolnshire; Mrs. Stewart Shoop, Stewart Shoop and Earle Stellwagen of Mokena. "Most citizens," Mr. Downs stated, "do not realize that Illinois and West Virginia are the only states that prohibit all forms of branch banking."

The non-profit organization is dedicated to the enactment in the state legislature of measures to modernize the banking structure of Illinois by permitting all banks to establish branches within a 15-mile area of their home community. Such a measure, to become a law, would require approval by the citizens of the state in a referendum.

Work For The D.A.'s

Now here is something that could keep Illinois states attorneys busy the rest of their natural terms but could also be an advantage to them is that it should discourage anyone else but the eagerest of eager beavers from seeking the office.

According to a ruling by Attorney General William G. Clark last week it is the duty of a state's attorney to bring action against a railroad to recover penalties provided by statute if its trains block a public street for more than 10 minutes. The attorney general also points out that the state's attorney cannot accept a fee or reward for filing such a suit at the request of a private individual.

If Mr. Clark's opinion means what we take it to mean then any citizen held up for more than 10 minutes at a rail crossing blocked by a train can take it upon himself to bring suit against the railroad thru the state's attorney.

If this is the case we can believe that many prosecutors find themselves knee deep in requests that such suits be filed. The state's attorney of Cook county, if he adhered to such a rule, would be forced to hire a regiment -- well anyway two companies -- of assistant prosecutors to handle nothing but blocked crossing cases.

There are many railroad crossings in and about Chicago and no doubt there are hundreds of motorists who are prepared to swear and bring in supporting witnesses that most of these crossings are blocked for more than 10 minutes several times daily.

The state's attorney of Will county could be kept busy on crossing cases also.

Residents of this area as well as Joliet residents who use Washington street for their east-west movements frequently have long waits at the crossing near the Joliet pumping station. There are other crossings frequently blocked more than 10 minutes until police or sheriff's deputies intervene but so far no citizen has come up with a suit, principally it is expected, because they didn't know they could do it.

The E. J. & E. crossing on East Cass street used to be a lulu, as many old timers in the area will attest, before the viaduct was built. One was always getting stuck there, sometimes for 15 or 20 minutes or even longer.

People fumed and doubtless laid foundations for ulcers but accepted the situation as a part of the price one paid to keep large employers contented and happy. Having been stuck there oneself on numerous occasions we really treasured the moment when a blockade was broken.

It so happened that we were riding with the sheriff that night, Big Jim Newkirk. He was really big. His hands were the size of small hams and he was very strong. In fact he didn't realize how strong he really was. We were going out to raid a still and Jim was in a hurry. He didn't want the operator to be gone when he got there.

The Cass street crossing was blocked when we got there. After couple of minutes Jim pulled out his watch. When it showed 10 minutes had gone by he got out of the car and walked over to where a flagman stood.

"Break the train," Jim ordered. "Who says so?" came a voice from the dark.

"The sheriff's says so," Jim said, and added that he was in somewhat of a hurry.

"That's too bad," said the owner of the voice, emerging from the shadows, "because we aren't ready to break it -- when we are we'll do it."

Big Jim reached out and took the speaker by the shirt front.

"Who are you?" he demanded. "The conductor," responded the other but his voice was not so certain now.

"Well, I'm the sheriff," Jim answered, giving what he would have honestly described as 'just a little bit of a shake' of the hand holding the shirt. The conductor reeled and would have gone smack into the side of a freight car if Jim hadn't been holding him. "And if this train ain't broken in 30 seconds I'm taking you to jail and I'll forget where I put you until some time tomorrow."

He gave another little shake and the conductor gasped.

"Yes sir, sheriff," he answered and went into action. He had time to spare out of the 30 seconds and it was just as well because the sheriff was getting a mite impatient.

Out in our area persons living out toward Manhattan have complained that the Wabash has blocked a crossing there for long intervals, sometimes hours, while the engine crew went to tea or otherwise absented themselves. It has happened that in Mokena Rock Island crews have blocked the Schoolhouse road crossing and went to lunch or visiting.

This ruling by the attorney general could make for a lot of work for the state's attorneys and a lot of annoyance for the railroads. We feel certain that if John Q. Citizen attempts to follow Mr. Clark's opinion that if the roads don't try for a supreme court ruling the state's attorneys will.

Should Mr. Clark's opinion be sustained then maybe someone can discover what to do when shipping on the Illinois waterway blocks bridges for long intervals. So far the only thing land traffic can do is make the best of it. The towboat pilot is king of all he surveys.

On Second Thought

By GLENN F. LOGAN

"Many inmates find security in prison... as opposed to the complexities they encounter in a free society," says Robert G. Hardin, a reformatory psychologist, in an article he wrote for Joliet - Stateville Time, a monthly publication of the Illinois penitentiary.

It is true that the vast majority of prisoners want freedom but now and then one finds someone who likes prison life. Quite a few years ago this department was covering a hearing at the penitentiary. It was being conducted by a committee from the state legislature and had something to do with treatment of prisoners.

The committee had been questioning various prisoners. The hearing was conducted in one of the offices at the old prison. There was a comfortable chair for the prisoner and comfortable chairs for the committee members. The prisoners called in enjoyed the affair. It was a break in the routine for them and also gave some of them an opportunity to air pet schemes or endeavor to put in a good word for themselves on the chance that it might get to places where it might do them some good toward a parole or a commutation of sentence.

Most of them had complaints about how the place was run but were diplomatic about it for after all the committee was not going to stay on and run the place. Some 20 prisoners had testified and then came one who was different. He liked it there, he told the committee in a matter of fact tone of voice.

"You mean you like it here--in prison?" a committee member demanded, plainly astonished by this strange comment. A couple of other gave snorts expressing disbelief, thus wakening the several members who were sleeping.

The prisoner obligingly repeated that he liked it there. He found it peaceful, he added when pressed for reasons. He attended to his own business and wasn't interested in any body else's affairs. He aimed to keep out of trouble and hoped to be successful. Trouble had a way of catching up with him on the outside but inside he was just doing his time, a day at a time, and eventually he expected to walk out but he wasn't in any hurry.

He had a place to sleep, three meals a day, enough work to keep him occupied but not too much to weary him. He didn't know why he had been called in... they could look at his record... it was clear of punishments and he hadn't lost any good time or privileges but if these men wanted to talk to him it was all right.

Was he from Chicago or Cook county? No, he wasn't a northern. He had come up to the Joliet branch from Menard.

"Why were you in Menard?" one of the committee asked. "For cookin' whiskey," he answered. He had a soft voice and he talked slow.

"Do you mean to say you were sent to the penitentiary for making whiskey?" the legislator demanded. "Why that's a federal offense."

"Well," the prisoner conceded, "I wasn't exactly sent to Menard for cookin' whiskey. I had a few words with a man who told the federal I was cookin' whiskey."

"And they put you in the penitentiary for just having words with a man?" another of the committee wanted to know.

"Well, not exactly," the inmate admitted, "I sorta lost my temper and I cut him up a little."

It came out that while the inmate did not die it was a couple of months before he was able to testify. In the meantime the man charged with attempted murder was in jail.

"It was a nice jail," he recalled, "and the sheriff was a mighty nice man. I used to help him some while I was waitin' trial."

"So you were sent to Menard and from Menard they sent you here," one of the interrogators suggested.

"No, not then," the prisoner explained, "it was the second time I was at Menard they transferred me here."

He saw his questioners looked puzzled so he explained. "I got paroled first time I was in Menard. I had a job waitin' for me and so the board let me out."

"You say you had a job. What were you doing?" "Cookin' whiskey."

"And I suppose someone turned you in and the parole officer picked you up for breaking the law."

"No," the prisoner patiently explained, "the parole officer picked me up when I left the hospital after he had talked with that railroad detective."

"What's that," a committee member interrupted, "what's he talking about. What railroad detective?"

"The one who shot me," came the placid response from the prisoner.

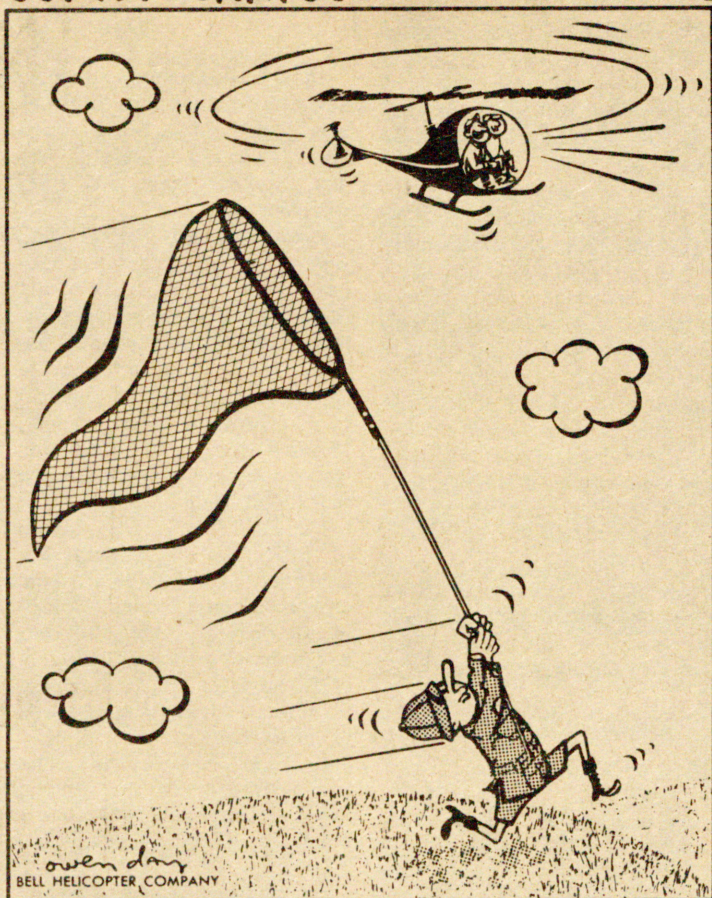

"The 'one who shot you,'" echoed another of the questioners. "What did he shoot you for?"

"For stealin' coal in the railroad yards."

In the British Malayan campaign, they had 250,000 troops and not over 1000 were behind desks. They won their objective. Do you think that we will? Defense Secretary Robert McNamara says, "U.S. aid to South Viet Nam has greatly increased over the past months. We can't expect termination of a war--and it is a war--in a matter of months. It will be years before it is concluded and I believe it will be concluded successfully". Does he think that it will require years, for us to gracefully lose this "touch football game" to the Communies?

What manner of a Defense Department, do we have? A bunch of part-time guerrillas from North Viet Nam is being allowed to make the U.S. Army advisory team look like a Boy Scout Troop trying to earn their Trail Blazer Merit Badges.

This is the same old pattern as was used in Korea. The Cuban farce was another calculated and engineered loss. The pushing of Laos into a coalition government which is top heavy with Communist sympathizers.

During the next Presidential campaign, I dare say, that our prestige will not be an issue. Brother, we are almost fresh out, of that stuff.

Patriotically yours, HENRY W. HICKS

SOCIALIST PLOTTERS

Dear Sir:

The Keynesian - Fabian plan for the socialization of a nation is a simple one. It is accomplished in three easy steps. It is as elementary as a dancing lesson at an Arthur Murray studio.

Step one -- Debase the currency.

This phase is progressing according to the plan of those subversives who are steering our Country's policy. Our gold reserves are only $10 billion above the amount necessary to protect our currency which is $11.7 billion, thanks to our trade and foreign aid management.

Further, there are at present, more than 20 billion in foreign claims against this 5. What would happen, should the claimants call for THEIR gold?

President Kennedy wants to take 2 billion from the reserves (FDIC) which protect our savings accounts. This is to be turned over to the International Monetary Fund (IMF) which was the brain-child of a good old boy who was a proven security risk during the Truman Administration, his name was Harry Dexter White, another of the early arrivals of the saboteuring "Liberal advisers in Washington."

J. Edgar Hoover filed a complete report on White before Truman promoted him to a more strategic position instead of firing him. This is good evidence that the termites have been in the woodwork for years.

They have eaten away at the heart of the timbers of sane government for almost three decades. The exterminators, such as Sen. Joseph McCarthy was slaughtered, have not been allowed to dislodge them. Anyone who attempts is definitely a "right-wing extremist". Now, under the Kennedy Administration, their presence is becoming clearly visible, as they have finally wormed their way to the top spots in government.

Step two -- Terrorize the people.

military traffic, in the event of disaster or attack". Then, there was the bomb shelter program of the Civil Defense Dept. This was to implant more fear. All these scare tactics are designed to accomplish the same as does a ledger-demanist. He gets your attention centered on one hand while the other hand is the one which should be watched, if you expect to catch the sleight-of-hand trick.

The recent stock market tumble and the inclination of big business to draw back a bit from their expansion programs, was a coolly calculated plan. This was sparked by the President's use of power, not relegated to him, sledge - hammering the steel price decision, thus spreading another bit of fear.

Step three -- Infiltration of schools.

Our schools are infiltrated from kindergarten through the college levels by "Liberals and/or socialist thinkers". The young teachers of today were brainwashed while getting their degrees. I personally know of cases where economics were injected into classrooms in college, even though unrelated to the subject, supposedly to be pursued. Anyone who disagreed with the professor in his opinions, was in danger of being flunked out of school. One friend of mine was finishing work on his degree in Chemical Engineering, under the GI Bill, in the nick of time, realized the reason for his poor grades, therefore he stopped disagreeing with his prof. His grades rose to a satisfactory point and he graduated.

Teachers who received this kind of brain-washing while working for their degrees and did not mentally resist it, are the ones who today are preparing the younger generation for surrender to Socialism.

The brain-wash theory is very similar to the chain letter. As time goes on, the conquest of young minds, is accelerating at a speed almost beyond belief. They are being molded to accept the "welfare state way of life" by becoming robots void of love for their country and patriotism. The philosophy is, let the government do your thinking, everything will be taken care of, from the cradle to the grave.

Should our educational system be surrendered to the Health, Welfare and Education Dept. in Washington, what more beautiful and effortless mental control could be effected.

President Kennedy at West Point, in his commencement address stated, "Army officers of today must be skilled in diplomacy, economics and other non-military fields, in order to fulfill their assignments effectively". I believe that this has always been a part of a West Pointer's education.

Is soft-on Communism thinking, also expected of these men who are supposedly, primarily, being trained to defend our country? The Air Force Academy in Colorado is furnished textbooks which promote this attitude toward our self avowed enemy. WHAT MANNER OR WARRIORS WILL EMERGE FROM THIS TYPE OF CURRICULUM?

Do you not agree that we, as a Nation are well on our way to the promised utopia offered by Socialism, Communism or whatever label may be put on it? I would say that we are really "moving ahead".
